

Mini-Retreat:

Worship and Its Ministers

Led by The Rev. Dr. Christian F. Brocato

Saturday, October 24, 2009

9:00-12 noon

(Coffee and bagels available at 9:00 am;
Retreat begins at 9:30 am)

What makes worship sacred and what detracts from the sacredness of worship? How can the ministers of the altar, lectors, intercessors, acolytes, choir, ushers, greeters, and altar guild foster a sacred spirit for a congregation? How can these ministers enter into the sacred spirit of worship while conscientiously fulfilling their roles? Do the responsibilities of serving at worship make it difficult for lay ministers to fully enter into worship?

These and other questions will be discussed in the mini-retreat. The retreat is open to all, but is especially recommended for those who serve in liturgical roles in worship.

Christian is the Priest-in-Charge of All Saints Church, Stoneham, an Assistant Priest at Parish of the Epiphany, Winchester, a member of the Diocesan Liturgy and Music Committee, and Professor and Chair of General Education at New England College of Business and Finance.
